

By Henry F. Donovan.

The Chicago Eagle numbers among its subscribers the most influential, most prosperous and most respected men in Chicago.

It reaches nearly every man of standing in the community and all men who are molders of public opinion or directors of public affairs.

It is the guide, mentor and friend of every political leader of every shade of opinion.

It is read by Government, State, County and City Officials.

It is read by a big percentage of the legal fraternity, including bench and bar.

It is the favorite of Chicago's leading business men.

It reaches all classes in their homes.

It is read by the Fire Department.

It is read by the Police Department.

It is in every public office and every public library.

It is not controlled by any cheap, shoddy or crooked advertising agency.

In the twenty-one years of its existence it has managed to build up a large circulation and great business without the aid of professional advertising chicanery.

That is why it is so independent, so popular and so strong.

The Chicago Eagle is one paper that has never depended upon advertising agents for a circulation. It is one of its own.

The people have been robbed by the electric game long enough.

It is understood that the telephone deal has all been fixed up in the City Council. Some aldermen not in the secret will be surprised to hear this.

James A. Quinn has always been noted for his kind-heartedness and most of his mistakes have been due to an impetuous temper and disposition. The good work that he did for the St. Vincent's Infant Asylum will not soon be forgotten, and he has just been giving an outing to the poor mothers and babies of the Twenty-first ward. He has been presented with engrossed resolutions that were passed by an assemblage of mothers just as the steamship City of South Haven was nearing Chicago on Friday evening. Eight hundred women and children of the Twenty-first ward had a delightful day's outing at the picnic given by Mr. Quinn. They showed their appreciation by gathering on the deck, organizing and passing resolutions thanking Mr. Quinn for the outing.

chines that do not register accurately are being condemned by Peter Zimmer, city sealer. A squad of inspectors toured last week and pasted signs on scores of machines that were found incorrect. The squad will look over the chewing gum machines next.

Twenty-nine candidates for the six new positions on the Superior Court bench were trotted out at the last meeting of the Republican county executive committee. The lists are still open and further entries are looked for. The six nominations will be made Sept. 19 at a convention of the precinct committeemen in the Second Regiment armory, but before convention day the probability is that the leaders will pick a slate.

Paullin, the well known furrier and member of the Drainage Board, are urging him to become a candidate for the Republican nomination for Congress in the Tenth district to succeed George E. Foss. At the meeting of the committee on buildings and grounds of the Board of Education bids for the erection of the new high school totalling $517,000 were accepted. An appropriation of $600,000 has been made for the building, which will be ready for occupancy August 21, 1912.

Henry Ericsson, building commissioner, sent a thirty-day notice to Peter Barten, president of the county board, calling for the repair of the Criminal Court building and the county jail. Neither building needs repairing from the standpoint of safety, but Mr. Ericsson wishes to have them made more sightly, as cracks in the stone have appeared.

The election board has issued a table showing that 1,221 Republican and 1,173 Democratic precinct committeemen are qualified to sit in the convention Sept. 19. The full number of precincts is 1,448.

A boom was started on Tuesday by friends of Municipal Judge Joseph Z. Uhler, who would like to see him win one of the Superior Court judgeships to be filled this fall. They are urging him to seek one of the six Republican nominations to be made at the convention of precinct committeemen on September 19. Judge Uhler was formerly alderman from the Twelfth ward, is a Bohemian, and chairman of the Political Action Committee of the United Societies. He has made a splendid record on the Municipal Court bench.

Municipal court judges will be given a chance to show their position in a threatened dispute over the control of bailiffs when the first fall meeting is called. The opportunity to line up either with Chief Justice Harry Olson or Chief Bailiff Thomas M. Hunter will be given when action is taken on six petitions of discharged deputy bailiffs for reinstatement. When the deputies were discharged Chief Justice Olson refused to approve the bonds of Hunter's appointees on the ground that their salaries had not been fixed by the judges.

James Herbert Wilkerson was sworn in as United States district attorney at Chicago last Friday. The fact that Mr. Wilkerson had taken the oath was known to only a few in the office, as the proceedings were without display or pomp.

The oath was administered by William H. Small, chief clerk of the district attorney's office.

Mr. Wilkerson succeeds Edwin W. Sims, who turned over the office to Mr. Wilkerson several weeks ago. Mr. Wilkerson refused to say whether he would make any changes in his office force, but it was rumored that several assistant district attorneys would be "let out."

Cheaper telephones must come.

Permanent bridges over the river would do wonders for Chicago.

How many aldermen are "fixed" on this telephone robbery?

The Chicago Eagle was the only Chicago paper which fought for the rights of the firemen's widows and orphans in the matter of the contributions given them after the stock yards fire. It is glad to see that Judge Cooper has awarded them the money.

Aldermen who respect their constituents should have that City Forester ordinance amended so as to permit property owners to trim their own trees without paying the City Forester a fee for permission to do so.

The battle for political supremacy in 1912 has commenced. When it is ended there will be some changes on the map.
